

To better visualize the newsletter, we recommend enabling the option to download images and include this address in your safe senders list.

Mesoamerica Program Newsletter

April 2017

More than 100 Guatemalan children participate in Community Festival on Safe Migration

The cold of the morning of Monday, April 17, did not prevent youngsters, students, mothers with their daughters and sons, and other people from approaching the acoustic shell of Concepción Tutuapa's central park in San Marcos Guatemala, to see what the invitation that was made through the loudspeakers was about.

Read More

El Salvador – Honduras new cross-border meeting

As part of the strategic activities of the Mesoamerica Program, officials from diverse institutions from El Salvador and Honduras had the opportunity last month to exchange experiences and continue strengthening a cross-border network for the protection of vulnerable migrants and their families. Read More

Highlights

Voluntary Return Program Testimony

Specialized Course on Migrant Children

IOM's Specialized Course on Migrant Children extend to Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Panama

A total of 50 officials of institutions and civil society organizations in Costa Rica started in April a specialized course to promote the comprehensive protection of migrant children and adolescents. About 100 people more from Nicaragua and Panama will join this group by middle May. Read More

Young people trained to raise awareness of migration officials

In order raise awareness about the needs of protection and assistance to young migrants in Mesoamerica, IOM, in coordination with the Departmental Delegation of Chinandega of the Ministry of the Interior, trained 20 youngsters as trainers, who later replicated the workshop to local authorities. Read More

Costa Rica: Educational centers free of racial discrimination

In Costa Rica, educators across the country have set the challenge of preparing themselves to adequately address the cases of racial discrimination in their schools. Read More

Costa Rica- Panama: a positive experience of binational migration dialogue (only in Spanish)

E-Learning Platform

Soon

Copyright © 2017 International Organization for Migration, All rights reserved.